Randall Young Principal Consultant

Randall Young, Competitive Advantage's Principal Consultant, has worked in the Engineering, Environmental, and Rotary Equipment fields for 32-plus years. He is also President of Competitive Advantage's partner company, Industrial Kiln & Dryer Group.

Randall's strong Engineering background began when he earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Engineering from University of Missouri, Columbia, MO. This degree led him to serve in this capacity for the next three decades, working his way up through three companies, serving in leadership roles, and at one point, managing an environmental plant in Scotland. While with this environmental company, Randall developed skills for his specialty, company and plant turn-around.

Randall is also very strong in the areas of due diligence and the creation of leadership teams. He has strong skills and knowledge of Lean and Six Sigma philosophies, is an excellent communicator, and excels in leading individuals and companies to grow and change.

Randall and his wife, Kendra, reside in Oldham County, KY.
